The non-profit Architectural Heritage Center is dedicated to 'Educating People to Preserve Our Building Heritage'. Our art exhibits honor the creative side of our founders, Jerry Bosco and Ben Milligan, and engage the community in exploring the interconnections of art and architecture.

Fostering Harmony: The Symbiotic Relationship of Architecture and Nature

Juried Art Exhibit at the Architectural Heritage Center
November 5 - December 31, 2010

Artist Receptions: Fridays, November 5th & December 3rd

Artists explore the theme of Fostering Harmony between nature and architecture through various mediums, viewpoints and interpretations.

How do the built and the natural environments complement one another?
How can architecture and the natural environment successfully coexist?
How does nature influence architecture and the built environment?
How do the built and natural worlds provide beauty, both together and independently?

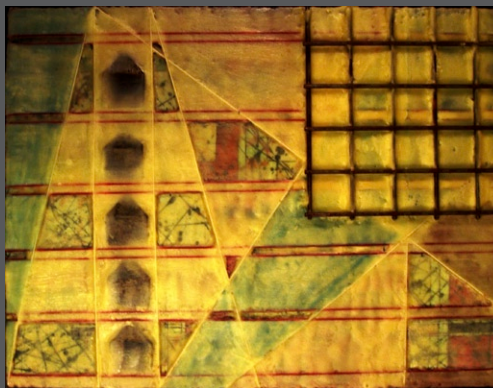

*All art on display is for sale. Sales support the individual artists and the AHC.
